PRICE FIVE CENTS

VICTORIAN LEADS CANADIAN TEAM FOR KING'S PRIZE

NOT CYCLONE, ONLY SHOWER, SAYS THORNTON

Canadian National Railways President Arrives With Party and Gives Conclusions of His Survey of Business and Conditions Across Canada; Tells of Responsibility of Industry to Its Employees, Declares Men Just as Important to Care for as Materials; Seeks to Relieve Unemployment Fear and Urges Two Weeks' Vacation for All.

Sir Henry Thornton, dynamic president of the Canadian National Railways, arrived in Victoria to-day at the end of his transcanadian survey and announced his conclusion on business conditions as follows:

"We can't expect the sun to shine all the time, there are bound to be showers. But so many people are mistaking a shower for a cyclone."

"We have got to look below the surface and see if there is anything wrong with our fundamentals. If you diagnose the position of the country, or, generally so to speak, you will find that we have the same mines, the same water power and other resources and the courageous and intelligent population we had a year ago."

ONLY HEADACHE OR COLD

"That tells us that we have no disease. Or, as the doctors would diagnose it, we have nothing organically wrong and are merely passing through a headache or a cold."

"We could not have the stock market losses of the crash last year in New York, which carried down all the markets in the world, without these losses finding expression in reduced purchasing power of the people in all lines."

"Things will probably mark time for a certain period until the public recovers its purchasing power. If we have a good crop on the Canadian prairies this year, we will be well on our way upwards next year."

TRI-CITY SERVICE

Sir Henry said he was interested in the reception being accorded the Canadian National's new hosts on the coast and the decision of the company to resume the Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle service next month.

"I see some people are objecting to us resuming our participation in the triangular service to Victoria because that will mean competition for the C.P.R.," Sir Henry went on. "But that is what we are here for. There seems to be plenty of business for everybody."

CREATED BY GOVERNOR

Sir Henry and Lady Thornton were met in Vancouver by Lieutenant-Governor Bruce and Miss Mackenzie, who accompanied them to Victoria on the boat last night. Sir Henry went to the Parliament Buildings and had a talk with Premier Tomin and later was luncheon guest of A. C. Finlay, chief of the Union Club. This evening he and Lady Thornton will be guests at a dinner and dance at Government House.

TALKS TO LABOR

Before boarding the boat last night, Sir Henry discussed labor conditions with the members of the Vancouver and New Westminster District Trades and Labor Council.

RESPONSIBILITY OF INDUSTRY

"First charges on industry," Sir Henry said, "should be three in number, namely: That a man should be given a wage sufficient to permit him to live in comfort and raise his family to be respectable members of society."

"Second, that illness of an employee should be a charge on the industry; third, that when an employee who has given his active life to an industry reaches an age when he can no longer do so, he is entitled to a continuance of his livelihood for the balance of his life."

"Should be first charges on industry. We have not been able yet, in industry, to do this, yet that is the goal, we, as management, and you, as labor, should seek."

"In this connection it is only fair to say the railways are entitled to a fair return in the form of freight and passenger rates the same as you are entitled to a fair wage. If the rates are low then we have just that much less to use for the purpose I have outlined."

"Your interest and aims, and ours, in full partnership, are one."

BRITISH LABOR NEWSPAPER ATTACKS HOUSE OF LORDS

London, July 16.—The London Daily Herald, Labor organ, to-day launched an Anti-Lords Campaign as a consequence of the repeated refusal of the House of Lords to pass the government coal mining bill in its original form and include seven and one-half hour working day.

"The peers versus the people" is the issue upon which the Labor government's campaign will seek to wage its next election campaign—a campaign which political commentators predict will see to see under way before the end of the year.

"The most serious challenge to the popular will since the House of Lords rejected Lloyd George's 'people's budget' of 1909" is the way The Herald describes the action of the upper house.

A meeting of the national executive of the Miners' Federation has been summoned to consider the situation following the twice-repeated action of the Lords.

COMMONS VOTE IN BRITAIN IS TO BE TEST

Expected MacDonald Ministry Will Win Division on Baldwin Motion

Debate To-day Followed Brief Discussion of Egypt Situation

London, July 16.—The MacDonald Government, after a brief flurry on the Egyptian situation, late to-day was plunged into debate on a Conservative motion of censure in the House of Commons for its not having provided safeguarding duties.

Notice of the motion was given by Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader on July 7. The Conservatives were sure to support the motion, but it appeared doubtful if any other would receive support from any other quarter. Most political observers were of the opinion there was no likelihood of the government's being overthrown.

Bandit Killed, Messenger Shot During Hold-up

Canton, Ohio, July 16.—A man believed by police to have been a bandit was killed and a bank messenger was wounded critically here to-day in a hold-up of two messengers who were transporting a package of registered mail to the post office for the Federal Reserve Bank at Cleveland.

BRITISH LABOR M.P.'S DISCUSS UNEMPLOYMENT

London, July 16.—The Labor government's policy in dealing with unemployment was upheld at a meeting of the Parliamentary Labor Party at Westminster to-day. By a vote of 80 to 30, the party held a series of meetings to discuss various aspects of the problem and possible solutions, also was sent to a committee of inquiry.

The motion expressed the opinion that the present unprecedented volume of unemployment made necessary a re-statement of the government's unemployment policy. It urged the government to outline definite new proposals.

Frog Imbedded In Concrete Two Years Freed By Workmen

San Dimas, Calif., July 16.—Workmen chiseling out a concrete wall a foot thick in remodeling the swimming pool at the Voorhees School, south of here, reported to-day they had found a live frog imbedded in the hardened mass of cement, which was laid two years ago.

The frog hopped away under its own power, they said. Its body was somewhat translucent and grains of cement could be seen in it. Otherwise, the finders said the frog was normal.

DENIAL MADE CITY MONEY WAS STOLEN

Suspended Head of Vancouver Scavenging Department Testifies at Inquiry

Other Witness Repeats Charges Made By Clerk Who Committed Suicide

Vancouver, July 16.—John Morton, suspended superintendent of the Vancouver city scavenging department, and another person, whose name was not given, were charged by the late Frederick M. Bentley with having been implicated with him in defalcations in the department which amounted to about $54,000 in four years.

This evidence was given this morning before the city council's select committee of inquiry by Edgar Westmoreland, friend of Bentley, the scavenging department clerk, who committed suicide after auditors had found shortages in his accounts.

Westmoreland testified that Bentley, several days before he died, had told him Morton and another man were implicated. Later, he said, Bentley had signed a statement saying others implicated, but refusing to name in the document either Morton or the other man. The second man Bentley steadfastly refused to name, said the witness.

CHRISTMAS PARCEL
Westmoreland stated that in November, 1927, just before Bentley had left for Great Britain, he asked Westmoreland to deliver a parcel at Christmas to City Comptroller A. J. Puking. The package, Westmoreland believed, contained bottles, but he did not know what was in them. It was the only Christmas that Bentley had sent the comptroller a present, as far as the witness was aware.

"Bentley told me," said Westmoreland, "that some days the money which Morton handed to him was $50 to $100 short," said Westmoreland.

DRIVERS HEARD
Eight drivers of scavenging department collection trucks were called, but failed to give any explanation of the tremendous gaps in number series of receipts. Each driver testified that every day he had handed his receipt book, with stubs filled out, to Morton, or in Morton's absence, to Bentley.

FOREIGNERS IN EGYPT TO BE PROTECTED

Britain Sends Two Battleships Following Yesterday's Disorders at Alexandria

Fourteen Killed in Riots; Streets Patrolled To-day By Troops

Canadian Press
London, July 16.—The British Government has ordered the battleships Queen Elizabeth and Ramilies to proceed to Alexandria for the protection of foreign lives and property endangered by disorders at that place.

Premier MacDonald, in announcing the dispatch of the vessels, also informed the House of Commons to-day that Sidky Pasha, present Egyptian Premier, and Nahas Pasha, former Premier and Nationalist leader, had been warned they would be held responsible for the protection of foreign lives and interests.

During rioting in Alexandria yesterday thirteen natives and one Italian were killed and many natives were injured in clashes between Egyptian soldiers and police and strikers.

ATTITUDE OF NEUTRALITY
The Prime Minister said: "As early as July 4, when the present constitutional crisis in Egypt first showed signs of developing, His Majesty's Government instructed the High Commissioner his attitude must be one of strict neutrality, though consistently with that position it was left to his discretion to remind both parties to the dispute that we, at this time, were doing all in our power to maintain the good atmosphere in which the treaty negotiations had terminated."

FOR EGYPTIANS TO DECIDE
"Sir Percy Lorraine made statements in this sense both to King Fuad and to Nahas Pasha, Prime Minister, who expressed his gratification. Since the formation of the present government, Sir Percy Lorraine made it clear that he adhered to its attitude of neutrality and non-intervention in what appeared to be a purely internal issue for the Egyptians themselves to decide."

MOSLEMS AND HINDUS RIOT, SAY REPORTS

Dispatches Believed Heavily Censored, Tell of New Bengal Disturbances

London, July 16.—Sparse Calcutta dispatches believed to have been blue-pencilled heavily by censors, today told of serious rioting in Eastern Bengal between Moslems and Hindus.

The London Daily Mail yesterday said an area of more than 160 square miles was affected. Four persons were killed and two wounded at Mymaningh, and calls for help were received from Kishanganj, about forty miles away. All available troops and police were rushed to both places.

The fighting was said to have started last Friday at Kishanganj, when a large Moslem mob surrounded the house of a Hindu money-lender, and after an unsuccessful parley on a note, looted and burned the residence, severely beating the occupants.

ONTARIO ELECTORS ARE TO HEAR PREMIER KING AS CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Once more Mr. King stated the Federal Government was willing to give "dollar for dollar" with the provinces and municipalities to meet the unemployment situation. This was contingent on a province declaring the situation was such that it could not cope with it.

Thus far, said Mr. King, he had not received from any province such representations.

The Prime Minister said the Dominion Government was ready to contribute immediately if provincial and municipal authorities would enter upon a programme of constructing subways under level railway crossings where necessary.

STATES POSITION CLEARLY

Premier King, at the beginning of his speech, said he was glad and willing to set forth his position in this election clearly and let the people decide.

The Liberal government, he said, had brought in and passed the Old Age Pensions Act.

One of the difficulties about dealing with certain problems arising in Canada was that the Fathers of Confederation had allotted certain functions to the Dominion and others to the provinces. Old age pensions, for instance, came within the purview of the provinces.

But the government could assist, and so the Old Age Pension Act had been passed, even though there had been opposition from the Conservatives. Since the act had gone through the Dominion had contributed more than $5,000,000. He was not claiming this was a contribution to meet unemployment, but it would assist in preventing unemployment.

BIG PENSIONS TOTAL

Again the Federal Government had contributed great sums to those who had served in the war and their dependents, in the form of war pensions. The amount paid to pensioners in Manitoba from 1922 to 1929, was more than $20,000,000.

The Prime Minister said the total pensions paid up to date by the government in all Canada amounted to $228,000,000.

Special provision had been made at the last session of Parliament for care of the "burned-out veterans." "We have said this is a class which is going to increase more and more," said Mr. King. "It is realized that type of man would be among the first to become unemployed, so the War Veterans' Allowance Act had been passed, granting the old age pension to such men at sixty-five instead of seventy. And if any of these men were unable to work, they could have the pension at once."

It was estimated this provision would ultimately cost the country $18,000,000. Again, this was not an unemployment measure, but it was of help in easing any unemployment problems which might arise.

Soldier settlers had been assisted, said Mr. King.

The eight-hour day had been instituted on all government work. This meant more men were employed.

C.N.R.'S COURSE

The Canadian National Railways had retained 5,000 men on their pay-rolls, even though it meant a reduction in revenues, Mr. King declared.

NO APPLICATION

The government, Mr. King said, was willing to grant assistance in unemployment, but no provincial government had applied. He did not wish to be misunderstood. Some time ago Premier Bracken, of Manitoba, had advised the Federal Government by telegram that his government and municipalities were giving unemployment relief and he was sending on a request of the war veterans for help. That had come last January at a time when the government had the War Veterans' Allowance Act under consideration and that act, assisting the veterans, had been passed.

And, said Mr. King, the Federal Government had not for a moment considered that was a statement that an emergency existed and that Federal assistance to meet such conditions was required.

NO PAYMENTS MADE

Mr. King told the audience the Federal Government had not for years contributed a single dollar toward bringing foreign immigrants into Canada.

He made this statement in answer to a question asked from the floor of the auditorium. As he continued discussion of unemployment, a man in the audience asked to be permitted to put a question.

The Prime Minister stopped and asked for silence so the question might be heard.

The man explained he was a workman who had found himself unable to compete with foreign immigrant labor.

"What are you doing about immigration?" he asked.

Mr. King said some foreign immigrants had come in under railway agreements. "But," he added, "last April we informed the railway companies they must stop recruiting for the bringing in of foreign immigrants, and they knew that to be the policy of the government."

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR

The Premier was applauded when he said the Federal Government was willing to assist any province which reported unemployment too great for it to meet. The government stood ready to contribute "dollar for dollar" with the provinces and municipalities.

"But," he asserted once more, "we have not received a communication from any provincial government stating it is unable to cope with the situation, and asking for Federal assistance."

WIDER MARKETS

The importance of developing Canada's foreign trade was emphasized by Mr. King. In it lay the solution of the unemployment problem. A sure market for Canadian wheat in Great Britain—that was what the government wanted to secure. That was the great object behind the signing of the British preference. Canada had done this not in a spirit of bargaining, but in a spirit of good will, sure she would meet a response from Great Britain. If the government was returned, certain of its members would go to the Imperial Economic Conference, and the Imperial Conference, seated with the Canadian people's support or the budget. They would say, asserted Mr. King, "We have not come to bargain, but we have come to point to you what has been done in Canada, and to ask what we may take back to them." Trade was exchange.

GOOD-WILL NEEDED

The Premier said he regarded the tariff policy of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, as "economic madness." Canada would benefit by an attitude of good-will and kindness toward Great Britain.

While a member of a family who stretched out a helping hand to another ever regretted it? he asked. Canada was pursuing the wise and right course in widening the British preference. Canada could best be represented at the Imperial Conference by the members of the present government.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED
There were a number of questions during the meeting, especially when Mr. King was dealing with trade, and the majority of them he answered. Only in one case, when a questioner had had two questions answered, and tried to put a third did the audience and Mr. King protest. The audience shouted "put him out." The Prime Minister remarked that perhaps the questions were calculated to disturb the meeting, but he would be glad to answer them later.

PEOPLE TO JUDGE
Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Railways, who spoke very briefly, said the campaign was now taking very definite shape and he was quite satisfied to leave the people to judge.

He mentioned some of the achievements of the government. The financial record was good and there were a number of accomplishments which stood out in the political history of recent times.

LAPOINTE SPEAKS
Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, congratulated Manitoba on her sixtieth birthday, celebrated yesterday. He referred to the fortitude and faith of the pioneers who laid the foundations of the province.

Markets and communication with the world were the basis of the present election, said Mr. Lapointe. There were those who believed that "trade is a battle of selfishness," and on the other hand, there were those who believed that "trade is based on friendly intercourse." That was the difference between the Conservatives and the Liberals.

Mr. Lapointe said Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, was saying that if elected he would maintain a session of parliament to raise the tariff. "No worse blow could be dealt to Canada," said Mr. Lapointe. Trade must flow freely. It was the solution of the unemployment question.

"Talk of blasting your way into John Bull," he said. "It has never been done." There was applause.

Mr. Bennett, speaking in Montreal had said, "Why appear to wrest from the Mother Country something she is willing to concede," said Mr. Lapointe.

NATIONAL STATUS
In dealing with the question of Canada's national status, Mr. Bennett was quite right in saying British statesmen were agreed on the national status of Canada, said Mr. Lapointe. The only people who wished to deny Canada her

MEXICO TROOPS ARE USED TO END PLAGUE

People of Stricken District Vaccinated Under Military Control

Special to The Times
Mexico City, July 16.—For the first time in Mexico, federal troops have been called to assist the department of public health in fighting a plague. This was done in the town of San Vicente Chiloapan, state of Mexico, some fifty miles from the national capital during an epidemic of black smallpox there. The plague was killing at the rate of ten persons a day, most of the victims being young children. This death rate was serious for a town of only 2,500 inhabitants.

Units of doctors sent to the place by the department of health failed to induce the citizens to undergo vaccination or in any way to aid in checking the spread of the scourge. So, acting on a specification of the new civil code, which allows the authorities to summon the aid of "public forces" in times of public danger, the department called out troops. The soldiers compelled the inhabitants of the place to present themselves at vaccination stations and to help with disinfection of their homes. The drastic measure put a stop to the spread of the epidemic.

MUSIC CAMPAIGN
The ministry of public education has launched a drive against the "invasion of vulgar music from the north" and is compiling an archive of national music. The archive consists of phonograph records which will be made of native and traditional song and instrumental music. The records will be supplied all government schools and private and public radio stations as a means of inducing young Mexicans to spurn United States jazz in favor of the melodies of their homeland.

National competitions are being conducted to bring out the best music.

BRITISH M.P.'S DISCUSS WHEAT

Canadian Press
London, July 16.—Sir. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, was asked in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon if there was any truth in the suggestion that any action of his had induced the Canadian Wheat Pool "to hold up wheat for the market."

Mr. Thomas merely replied that, on the contrary, he had taken the view that wheat at $1.40 was too high.

Mr. Thomas was also questioned regarding the discussions he had with the Canadian government while he was in Canada last autumn and about the visit of Canadian Wheat Pool officials to London some months ago. He referred the questioner to his statement of last February, when he said it had been found impossible to reach a definite agreement about regulation of wheat shipments to Britain.

HOUSE SPEAKER MET UNUSUAL PARTY PROBLEM

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Ottawa, July 16.—Now that the name of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux falls for the first time in thirty-four years, to appear in the nominations for Gaspé, perhaps he may be inclined to reveal a political secret.

During these turbulent parliamentary days of 1926, when one government vainly sought dissolution and another was defeated within a week, Speaker Lemieux (as he then was) narrowly escaped holding the fate of a Conservative administration within the hollow of his hand. It all turned on a broken pair. But for that Mr. Lemieux, ardent follower and close friend of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, would have had to give a casting vote on a Liberal motion of non-confidence. What would he have done?

Unable to proceed, Premier King had sought dissolution from Lord Bessborough, Governor-General, and dissolution was refused. Mr. King resigned. Mr. Meighen was invited to form a government.

He accepted, was sworn in and thereby unseated himself. The members of his government could not take departmental portfolios without also having to seek re-election. They became acting ministers and retained their membership in the house. The Liberals opened a barrage and submitted a motion of non-confidence. A few Progressives who had voted against Mr. King supported the Liberal motion and when in scenes of intense excitement, the vote was counted it was found the Meighen government had been defeated by one vote.

VOLE STOOD
Then a Progressive rose, apologized, intimated he had broken his pair by mistake and sought to withdraw his vote. Speaker Lemieux ruled the vote, having once been cast, could not be withdrawn.

The same day Mr. Meighen secured dissolution. He was defeated at the polls and resigned as Prime Minister and as leader of the Conservative party.

But for the broken pair Mr. Lemieux would have had to vote one way or the other. At the time it was said he might have followed an old tradition that a speaker's casting vote should not be employed to defeat the government in office.

On June 3 last Mr. Lemieux was appointed a member of the Senate.

WOMAN AND CHILD DROWNED IN VANCOUVER

Mystery Surrounds Deaths of Mrs. E. Arnfeld and Little Son

Vancouver, July 16.—Mrs. E. Arnfeld, sixty-first Avenue East, and her eight-year-old son Edward were drowned yesterday afternoon in False Creek near the Kitilano Indian Reserve, police report.

The body of the woman was found floating in a rowboat half filled with water. The body of the child was not found despite dragging operations carried out by police.

Mystery surrounds the tragedy as there were apparently no witnesses. Mrs. Arnfeld and her only child were missing when Mr. Arnfeld returned from work Monday evening.

His report to the police led them to conduct him to the city morgue, where the body had been taken. He identified it as that of his wife.

MEXICO IS TO SELL CANADA MORE ORANGES

Government of Republic Hopes to Increase Shipments

Special to The Times
Mexico, July 16.—The Mexican Government has taken a definite step toward expanding the market in Canada for oranges grown in this country. Senator Francisco Gonzalez y Gonzalez, a horticultural expert, has been sent by the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labor to the orange growing regions of the republic with a view to organizing the planters in an intensive campaign to ship their products to the Dominion. All Mexican consuls in Canada have been instructed to gather data concerning the market in the Dominion for Mexican oranges. Citrus fruit, especially oranges, grown in Mexico, are high grade and the Government expects strongly to challenge the growers of California and Florida in the Canadian market.

Plans are being made to get around an embargo placed by the Ottawa government on Mexican oranges by subjecting all shipments of this fruit to Canada to thorough disinfection. Growers are being instructed to ship only the very best fruit to Canada. The Federal government is encouraging orange growers to install the most modern machinery for producing orange juice. The government intends to create a large export trade in this by-product, largely to Canada. The plan is to ship the juice to all the American countries.

ACHIEVEMENTS NOT WORDS

MR. BENNETT DOES NOT SEEM TO BE interested in the King government's policy of tax reductions. But it means a great deal to the wage earner, the small-salaried man, and those engaged in the primary industries of the country.

Let us consider what the King government has done with the income tax since it took office in 1921. In 1922 it extended the exemption in respect of each child from $200 to $300; in 1924 the exemption amount was increased from $300 to $400. In 1926 the exemption limit in respect of the salaries of married persons was raised from $2,000 to $3,000, and from $1,000 to $1,500 for others. Obviously this was a great boon to married men earning a moderate salary. Then in the same year the tax was reduced from four per cent to two per cent on incomes of $5,000 or less, while the corporation income tax fell from ten to nine per cent. In 1927 the 1926 rates were cut ten per cent and an additional ten per cent was lopped off in 1928. This year, incidentally, exemption from income tax to the extent of $5,000 went into effect in respect of bona fide co-operative companies and government or other like annuities.

It is interesting to note what the King government has done to the sales tax. In 1923 this impost stood at the flat rate of six per cent. From 1924 to this year one per cent has been taken off annually. It now stands at one per cent, and we may take it that it will disappear altogether when the next Dunning budget is brought down in 1931.

Four years have elapsed since the King government restored two-cent postage in Canada and re-established the same rate between Canada and other parts of the British Empire—a move enthusiastically acclaimed in Great Britain and all countries belonging to the British Commonwealth. It also will be remembered that in 1922 a cheque tax was imposed at two cents on every $50 with a minimum of $2 on $5,000 or over. In 1923 this minimum was reduced to $1.00. In 1925 the tax on cheques not exceeding $5.00 was remitted. In 1927 this tax was reduced to two cents on cheques of over $10.00. The receipt tax was abolished in 1926. The transportation tax was taken off in 1929. The tax of one cent on insurance premiums other than life and marine, and the three-cent tax on telegrams and cablegrams were also taken off in 1929.

As a result of the tax reductions we have enumerated it is estimated that in five years remission of taxation now amounts to the enormous sum of $116,000,000 a year—a direct annual saving to the people of this country. In addition to these tax cuts, moreover, the King government has lowered or removed tariff duties on many commodities used every day. Consider this list as part of the general record of the administration since it took office:

- 1922—Reduction on sugar, agricultural implements, textiles, boots and shoes.
- 1923—Tariff on goods imported under the British Preference reduced by ten per cent wherever regular duty exceeds 10 per cent.
- 1924—Duty on implements of production reduced.
- 1925—Reduction on well-drilling machinery and engines for fishermen's boats.
- 1926—Automobile duty reduced, leading to substantial reductions in prices to Canadian purchasers.
- 1928—Further reduction on implements of production in mining and fishing industries.
- 1930—The made free under British Preference, effecting a reduction in price to the consumer of from 10 to 15 cents per pound.

Preference extended in many products of the iron and steel industry.

While the King government has been able to achieve so much in the matter of tax reduction in such a comparatively short time, the important fact should be taken into account that the period between 1922 and the present has been notable for increased revenues, expansion of domestic and foreign trade, and a reduction of the national debt by very nearly $300,000,000.

This is the record which has been marked up under Liberal policies. Mr. Bennett would not be able to continue them, because his party is pledged to policies which would increase the cost of living, restrict trade, and put the country back in the condition in which it found itself when Mr. Mackenzie King was called upon by the people of Canada to put our house in order.

WAYWARD MR. HAMILTON

THE VANCOUVER DAILY PROVINCE, the Conservative party's most influential newspaper supporter in British Columbia, really should take Mr. R. J. Hamilton, opposition candidate for Burrard, on one side and put him right on the one matter which even our contemporary thinks stands to the credit of the King government—Canada's trade treaty with Australia. At the Kitsilano High School on Monday evening Mr. Hamilton is reported by The Province as saying that "the treaty is of doubtful value."

The Province, of course, knows that we now sell to Australia commodities to the value of nearly $20,000,000—an increase of 82.3 per cent in seven years. It also knows that British Columbia's industries have benefited considerably from the operation of this treaty, and that they stand to benefit still more if the King government shall be returned and enabled to negotiate an extension of the present arrangement.

Knowing all this, The Province could not help saying some time ago that the Canadian-Australian treaty stands out as one of the major accomplishments of the King government. It even repeated the statement last week in response to what it appeared to be an attempt on the part of The Times to "draw" it on the subject. Surely, then, it ought to put Mr. Hamilton right, even though it seems to have no influence with Mr. Stevens or Mr. Bennett in this regard.

HOLLYWOOD AND FOREIGN TALKIES

THAT VERSATILE AND ENGAGING screen personality, Marie Dressler, has just returned from a trip to Europe and has something pertinent to say to Hollywood about the future of the talkies as they relate to American production in foreign languages. She admits that the motion picture patrons of Europe have learned to like American pictures because of their general excellence. "But, naturally enough," she points out, "a European audience that was perfectly and blissfully satisfied with an American silent picture is not satisfied with an American talking picture. It wishes and demands one in its own language." For this reason Miss Dressler suggests that the talkie films call for a new deal all round in pictures appealing to the very large international clientele.

The question that arises is whether American producers will be able to bring the languages to the United States and continue to produce talking pictures that can be shown all over the world. Miss Dressler is interested in the proposal to produce one picture in several languages, using the same sets with the same story, but with a separate cast for each language. At the same time she reminds Hollywood of the hard fact that the personality of this or that artist so often gives a talking picture a character which may be lost or greatly altered when a new cast is used. To support this argument is the case of "Anna Christie," in which Miss Dressler herself scored such a signal success. This film was well received in Great Britain; but they tried to produce the picture in Germany and gave it up because they were unable to find anybody to play Martha as it was played in the American original.

As the original Martha, Miss Dressler says she would like to be able to play the part in French and German, but admits her inability to do so and doubts very much if any actor or actress can portray successfully a part in several languages. Obviously the advent of the talkie has produced a problem. It would seem, however, that Great Britain and other countries now have their golden opportunity to share the film business with the United States. For the talking picture has come to stay and the voice is one of the prime considerations.

THE TWO MR. BENNETTS

IN HIS KEY SPEECH OF THE CONSERVATIVE campaign which Mr. Bennett delivered at Winnipeg on June 9 he announced the following as one of the eight pledges of his party:

We pledge ourselves to a national old age pensions scheme.

In the light of the fact that Mr. Bennett and his party attacked the King government's old-age pensions bill and the Conservative majority in the Senate threw it out in 1926, necessitating the re-introduction of the measure in the following year, it is interesting to compare the following statements from Mr. Bennett in the House of Commons and on the hustings:

MR. BENNETT IN THE HOUSE

I am convinced that if the government's old age pensions scheme cannot succeed without the co-operation of all the provinces unless the Dominion, in defiance of our constitutional jurisdiction, as voiced and justified by the deputy minister of justice, sees fit to undertake the whole responsibility, which would involve us in the expenditure of $23,000,000 per annum, and in a very short time an expenditure of $40,000,000, an expenditure entirely too large for us to undertake at the present time.

MR. BENNETT ON THE HUSTINGS

If the Conservative party should succeed on July 28, and I have every reason to believe it will, I will see to it that old age pensions are paid to every province of the Dominion from the federal treasury. It is a national obligation. Premier King says it cannot be done constitutionally. If the Dominion can pay 50 per cent of old age pensions, why can not it pay 99 per cent?

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

LONDON RAILWAY STATIONS
London Correspondent in The Manchester Guardian

The underground railway, indeed, has become one of the sights of London which are sure to produce envy in the hearts of our foreign visitors. The Piccadilly station, I know by experience, creates almost as much admiration among our American visitors as the Pennsylvania Railway Station in New York creates among English visitors there. The Piccadilly Station cost the railway about half a million pounds.

Work is about to begin on the new Leicester Square station, which is to cost about £400,000. The overhead station will disappear, and booking-hall, arcade with shops, escalators, and so on will be constructed on the same scale, design and finish as the Piccadilly Circus Station. It will have four entrances and three escalators. At Hyde Park Corner another grand circus station will be constructed underground.

About £10,000,000 is to be spent on the underground railway's new extensions and stations. Dover Street Station is to be reconstructed and greatly enlarged. Running under the Green Park, the lines are being extended to Cockfosters, near Barnet, and to Northfields, beyond Hamersmith.

THE QUOTA
The Detroit News

Our immigration laws are hard to understand. We say we want immigrants easy to assimilate, yet we have cut down on the Scandinavians and Germans, who have shown themselves easily assimilable, and who become highly valuable and patriotic citizens, and we boost the quota of the English, who show no disposition to come to our shores in the numbers allowed. We permit 65,721 immigrants from Great Britain, but in the last fiscal year only 21,527 came in. We insist on a quota system based on the national origin of our population forty years ago, declaring that by adopting such an arbitrary basis we avoid offense to other nations, and at the same time we insult Japan and fellow that up by insulting Mexico; two neighbors with whom we ought to be on very good terms. It would be far more logical and consistent if we should tell certain nations that too many of their people are in our jails and asylums, and that we shall admit only a very limited number of their nationals hereafter, and those only after they have been thoroughly examined.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

The repute of this column is partially restored—An invitation is extended—Cats are deplored—and Mayakovsky finds out too late.

By R. B. W.

THE REPUTE of this column has undergone a rapid and staggering improvement among more respectable people in the last few weeks. It is not long ago that some respectable people were gently chiding this column for its alleged attempt to popularize among the very young the sport of pulling off the wings of flying animals. And behold, today high officials of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals so far re-established me in public esteem as to give me a special individual invitation to hold its tag day next Saturday. I think enough of the S.P.C.A. to pass that invitation along to this column's readers, for I cannot imagine any cause more worthy of their support.

IT MAY BE TRUE, as this column has long contended, that our age is all distasteful up with organizations, that life is being organized out of all recognition and all endurance. It is certainly true that if we were really civilized, no organization like the S.P.C.A. would be necessary, for no one would be cruel to animals. But as we are not yet civilized, and cruelty does exist, to get anywhere nowadays without a organization to sponsor it, the people who give their time to the S.P.C.A. deserve a great deal more credit than they are ever likely to get. To give oneself to such work, as they do, means a great deal, to make a small donation towards it as a tag day means nothing at all. But the few splendid people who are devoting themselves to the protection of animals have a reward which only animal lovers can understand. Any mongrel dog will give them a measure of gratitude and appreciation such as they will never get from their own kind. I imagine, in all they want, but in our unhappy times they cannot do even these works of the spirit without the use of sordid lucre. I hope Victoria gives them a lot on Saturday, for the true test of a city, as of a man, is not the way it treats those above it but the way it treats those underneath it.

WHILE THEY ARE ABOUT IT, I wish the S.P.C.A. would do something about cats. I have nothing against cats as individuals, and I realize that there is to be deplored as much as cruelty to any other animal. But unless we are going to allow the world to be overrun with cats to the extermination of the much more valuable and attractive birds, they should be discouraged. And in a civilized community where it is not safe to allow every dog to shoot every cat, plainly, on eight, the best way to discourage them is to tax them. Why dogs, which do no harm to any other animal, and are a joy to everyone, should be taxed, while helpless birds, and cats, which produce no benefit, are not taxed, is a mystery. One of those deep mysteries which lurk in the dark and dusty second-story passages of the City Hall.

YOUR CAT LOVERS will reply that we have no right to limit the multiplication of cats and restrict the development of the species; that cats have as much right to live and produce large families as we have. This, on the basis of pure logic and unalloyed justice, unquestionably is true. But we don't live on a basis of logic or justice. We are essentially illogical and unjust, and we have to be so if we wish to live at all. If we were logical and just, we would allow all nature, all animals and all growing things, to multiply and live as they wished, in which case there would soon be no room for us at all. In a world ordered according to logic and justice we should not be tolerated for a week. It is much more comfortable for us to order it according to our own convenience, and in doing so we should make it uncomfortable for our unnumbered legions of unwanted cats, before they make it intolerable for us.

VLADIMIR MAYAKOVSKY, poet of Bolshevik Russia, as yet, I am sorry to say, some time ago, is dead, and the story of his death is the story of the Russian people's tragedy. It is a story of forces which will shake the world long after the Russian Revolution has become dim in the memory of men. Vladimir Mayakovsky was the most violent voice of Bolshevikism. He gloried in physical might, scorned the "Russian soul," "Slav mysticism" and everything which could not be controlled and ordered by the Soviet. "There is no place for weakness and spring tenderness," he cried in one of his poems, and it was said of him that he perfected a row of incandescent bulbs in the twinkling of an eye, the black plumes of smokestacks to all the flowers of the fields. To him the individual did not exist, was not worthy to exist—the mass was everything. And when the young poet Yesselin killed himself because he had exhausted every other human experience but death itself, Mayakovsky was in the middle of this being, wrote a pathetic note of farewell, and killed himself. He could not go on believing his own propaganda. He found that his life was starving for the things which he had denounced in his flaming poetry. The youth of Russia, which looked to Mayakovsky as

BENNETT ENDS HIS QUEBEC ELECTION TOUR

Federal Conservative Leader Turns to Ontario After Three Rivers Meeting

Three Rivers, Que., July 15.—Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, addressed a meeting here yesterday afternoon, the meeting closing his election tour of Quebec province. He is to address a series of meetings in Ontario.

Mr. Bennett dealt chiefly with tariff matters.

"The questions we must consider," he said, "are how best we can serve Canada; how best we can serve the Canadian people, make our people more contented and prosperous, and keep our boys and girls in this country."

The Quebec Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Bennett said, had commented on the fact that fifty per cent of certain products consumed in this province had been imported.

"Give Canadians a chance," said Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Bennett said that if the people found they were not now as prosperous as they were in 1922 it was their duty "to change the present government and put in a new government, and if that government fails turn it out."

CANADIANS PURCHASE

Mr. Bennett asked "why are our fellow Canadians waiting to get out of the country? It is because we are sending $5,000,000 every working day of the year to the United States to buy goods," he said. "If we were to be sending $5,000,000 per day to the country to the south to buy manufactured and partly manufactured goods."

He said that if the Conservatives were returned to power he had "told people everywhere I have spoken that at the first session of Parliament, immediately after July 28, that I will have laws enacted to see that Canadians get fair competition, as equal opportunity in competition with other countries. That is what will be done, or I will perish in the attempt."

Without any mental reservation, he continued, this pledge would be carried out and the people now know in advance for what policy they were voting.

RAILWAY TIES TO BE TESTED

Empire Markets Board Arranging Shipment From B.C. to London

Great Britain offers British Columbia a potential market for railway ties. The Empire Markets Board of London, England, yesterday told members of the Provincial Cabinet that a delegation of British Columbia lumbermen be sent to British markets to develop interest in British Columbia timber products.

An experiment shipment of Douglas fir, railway ties has been made from Vancouver, and will be subjected to a creosoting process in London. Mr. Lloyd welcomed a suggestion that a delegation of British Columbia lumbermen be sent to British markets to develop interest in British Columbia timber products.

Mr. Lloyd stated that a trial shipment of British Columbia pines should be forwarded to England this year.

WANTS WORK

To the Editor:—Having about the unemployment question from the candidates makes me wonder do they really understand the question? No person who has not gone hungry from the lack of employment can understand, no matter how great his imagination may be.

From all outward appearances I do not think anyone would suspect the position we are in. My husband has worked about five weeks this year. He spends part of his time annoying contractors asking for a job. He wants work pure and simple and not any charitable association to be notified of our position. As for the dole—have my children, if their daddy does not obtain work, to learn to accept outside help, when he is healthy, capable and willing to work to keep them. A more depressing experience could not befall our home. We are at the present time out enough sugar to put our own fruit up for the winter, but our neighbors do not know it.

A RAFFLE SAATCHI RESIDENT.
Saanich, B.C., Sunday, July 13.

THE S.P.C.A.

To the Editor:—As the tag day for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is to be held on Saturday next, I should like to take this opportunity of contradicting a rumor that the society is no longer in need of voluntary subscriptions since it received a legacy from the late Mr. Brooks.

I can best explain this by quoting the last report, as follows:

"Through the generosity of the late Mrs. Lillian Mary Brooks, the society finds itself in the possession of a fund which somewhat relieves the financial burden. This sum of money is placed in trust with the Royal Trust Company, thereby conserving the principal sum for all time, and the same is insuring a steady income of $48 per month. Though this income is of great benefit to the society it only provides a minor portion of the means necessary to carry on the work."

The disbursements for 1929 totaled $1,746.75. This year the expenses will be in excess of this sum, probably $2,000. The society's expenses are the generosity of those who subscribe as members, but the amount collected in addition to the income received from the Brooks legacy is inadequate to meet expenses.

In April of this year the Toronto Humane Society held a tag day and raised $1,000. The result? I hope that Victoria will try to emulate Toronto on Saturday.

TO DEBATING CLUBS

Tot the Editor:—A debating team composed of representatives from Great Britain, known as the British Debating Team, will tour Canada this year. The sponsors of the tour are very anxious that this overseas team should debate in Victoria, and in order that there may be as little difficulty as possible they have reduced the guarantee, necessary to secure the visiting team, from financial loan to the sum of $50. The Provincial Civil Service Debating Club has been asked to arrange a debate accordingly, but the club is unfortunately too limited in numbers to undertake it alone. If there are any debating organizations, or other organizations, in the city willing to meet the British team, or who would be prepared to form a joint team with the Provincial Civil Service Debating Club, I should be glad to hear from them as soon as possible.

PLUNKETT SPEAKS ON PROTECTION

Conservative Candidate Objects to Importation of British Woollen Goods

D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate for the city of Victoria, spoke on protection to the employees of the Lemon Gossamer Company yesterday afternoon. His talk had principally to do with the protection of the woolen industry in this city, the Hiker Toy Company's enterprise and the woolen industry now recently started in Victoria.

Mr. Plunkett said that the removal of the duty of five per cent on foreign toys had resulted in loss to the local concern as Victoria consumers apparently preferred to buy the imported product at a cheaper price. In the same way he pointed out that the woolen plant here, which in prosperous times would be employing a payroll of thirty-five, had been materially checked in its operations by removal of the duty on British yards.

The Conservative candidate will speak this evening at the North Ward School, dealing with unemployment and returned soldiers.

This afternoon a garden party is being held at the home of Major and Mrs. MacQueen at the corner of West Saanich Road and Beaver Lake Road. It is being given under the auspices of the ladies of the Saanich Conservative Association and will serve as an opportunity of welcoming Mr. and Mrs. Plunkett.

This evening C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate for Nanaimo, will address two meetings in the Saanich section of his riding in Nanaimo, at Royal Oak Hall and at the Temperance Hall, Keating. He will be assisted by P. E. Cunliffe, of Nanaimo. Each meeting begins at 8 o'clock and the speakers will alternate with each other at the two.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing aids, the Canadian Acoustical Ltd., Dept. 2300, 48 Richmond St. West, Toronto, Ont., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the recreation of hearing for the deaf. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any one who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and satisfying test. Wheat Price Low Enough, Says Stone

Washington, July 16.—Wheat has got to a point, where, in my opinion, it is about as low as it is going, said Jas. C. Stone, a member of Federal Farm Board.

Mr. Stone believed this because farmers are holding back and storage facilities are better than they were at this time last year. Due to these facts the price will improve, he believes.

Mr. Stone revealed that the Farm Board has not taken under consideration suggestions made by Senator Capper, Republican, that the Board purchase 100,000,000 bushels of wheat. He also said that the Board has not given any consideration to stabilization for this year's crop.

OFFICERS H.M.S. DAUNTLESS ARE HOSTS AT DANCE

Delightful Affair Held Aboard Visiting Cruiser Yesterday Evening

Lieut.-Governor and Miss Mackenzie Among 200 Guests Invited

Naval men are proverbially fine hosts and the 200 guests invited aboard the H.M.S. Dauntless yesterday evening, when Capt. H. R. Moore, R.N., D.S.O., and the wardroom officers entertained at a dance, experienced one of the most delightful affairs of the year. The cruiser was en fête for the occasion, flags, bunting and hundreds of Japanese lanterns adding to the festive air. A novel note of decoration, a rock garden with miniature pond, in which goldfish sported beneath the trickling waters of a fountain—converted the erstwhile business-like atmosphere of the upper deck into a delightful rendezvous. Supper was served in a huge marquee erected on the jetty, masses of flowers and ferns being used in decoration. The excellent dance music was furnished by a five-piece orchestra.

Installation of officers was the chief business at the regular meeting of the Carnie Rebekah Lodge No. 45, held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Douglas Street, Friday evening. There was an unusually large attendance of members and visitors present. During the evening the D.D.P. Sister Edwards, assisted by a very capable staff of officers, composed as follows: Margaret Gardiner, deputy grand marshal; Thelma Creech, D. G. warden; Margaret Stewart, D. G. rec.-sec.; Rhoda Oard, D. G. fin.-sec.; Edith Todd, D. G. treas.; Laura Bell, D. G. chaplain; Sister Bainbridge, D. G. inside guard; Madge Randall, D. G. outside guard.

Vera Bickle, D. G. musician, installed the following officers of Carnie Lodge into their respective offices for the ensuing term: L.F.N.G. Ada Bannister, N.G. Cristie Arnall; V.G. Elizabeth Renfrew; rec.-sec. Eva Doane; treasurer, Amy McKenzie; fin.-sec. Winnie Arnall; R.S.N.G. Grace Livingstone; L.S.N.G. Iva Hall; R.S.V.G. May Taylor; L.S.V.G. Mary Goomie, warden; Agnes Barr; conductor, Lily Dobbie; chaplain, Clara Taylor; inside guard, Ethel Allan; outside guard, Bro. Broadfoot; musician, Margaret Winter.

Under good of the order, several presentations were made to the different officers. D.D.P. Sister Edwards presented the retiring P.N.G. Sister Bannister with beautiful P.N.G. jewel, also a handsome handbag, the gift of the degree staff; the N.G. presented Sister Laura Bell with a P.N.G. jewel for untiring work in the lodge. Sister Bell was formerly a member of another Rebekah lodge, and had not previously received a jewel. Bro. Livingstone, P.G. and staff captain of the lodge for a number of years, was asked by the N.G. to approach the dais, where she presented him with a handsome walrus traveling case, fitted with natural ebony, as a token of high esteem and appreciation.

Sister Bannister, Sister Bell and Bro. Livingstone all responded in a very pleasing manner, stating that any assistance they had given the lodge had been a pleasure.

Several visitors addressed the lodge, and all expressed their pleasure at being present on such an auspicious occasion.

After the closing of the lodge, refreshments were served in the banquet hall.

Origin of Word "Mayon"
The word "Mayon" was coined in 1924, to signify the textile hitherto known as "artificial silk." It was thought that the use of the latter expression was an admission of inferiority, hence the necessity of giving to the world's first synthetic textile a suitable name.

MUSICAL ARTS SOCIETY ADOPTS CONSTITUTION

New Organization Elects Directorate, Which Includes Four Men

Amateurs Assisting Concerts May Be Given "Reasonable" Fee

Adoption of the constitution and by-laws and election of a directorate of fifteen formed the principal business at a special meeting held in the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon of the newly-formed Victoria Musical Art Society. About seventy-five attended the meeting, including a good representation of the former members of the now defunct Ladies' Musical Club, together with men and women interested in the purpose of the new society, which aims to encourage "the advancement of music and the allied arts, particularly among young students." Mrs. H. P. Hodges was elected chairman of the meeting.

Of the fifteen directors elected, the five obtaining the highest number of votes will serve a three-year term, the next five will serve for two years and the remaining five for a one year term. Those elected, in the order of polling were: Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Miss Owen Harper, Miss Dunblatton, Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. Mary McCoy Jamieson, Stanley F. Butler, Mrs. F. G. Aldous, Mrs. W. B. McKelvie, Mrs. D. W. MacLure, Mrs. Marion McGovern, Mrs. J. Rose, Frederick King and Burdon Murphy. These directors will elect, from their number, the officers of the new society.

The proposed constitution and by-laws created much interesting discussion. Mr. Bulley sought the adoption of a clause in the constitution requiring twenty-five members as a quorum for a general meeting, and a twenty-five per cent attendance of the membership as a quorum for the annual meeting. been expressed, Mr. Bulley's amendment carried by a large majority. Another decision of much interest in musical circles was the clause authorizing the directors to pay a "reasonable" fee to amateurs assisting on the society's programmes.

It was decided to hold the annual meetings in April. Fees will be $1 annually for junior members and $2 for senior members, including directors. A clause in the constitution states that any member failing to pay their dues within one month prior to the annual meeting shall be declared delinquent and deprived of the privilege of voting at the annual meeting.

WOMEN AGAIN SEEK PLACE IN HOUSE OF LORDS

Lord Astor Moves Resolution; Would Admit Women Same
Terms as Men

Sixth Attempt Being Made to Introduce New Bill Into Lords

Canadian Press
London, July 16.—That in view of the attainment of women to full enfranchisement, to membership of the House of Commons, to Cabinet, and Ministerial rank in His Majesty's government, this House would welcome a measure admitting them to the House on the same terms as men," is the resolution moved by Lord Astor in the House of Lords to-day.

Behind the resolution stand nearly all the leading organizations of women in England. They have asked for renewed support from those peers who voted in the past for the bill to admit women, and the modern suffragettes are also working for the conversion to their cause of recently-created Lords.

SIXTH ATTEMPT
Mrs. Helen Archdale, as chairman of the women peers' committee, which has been formed from some twenty societies for the purpose of getting women into the House of Lords, is leading the campaign for a new bill in the Lords. It will be the sixth attempt. Mrs. Archdale, who is the widow of an army officer, was twice imprisoned during the militant suffrage movement, gave distinguished service to the government in war-time, and has since been prominent on committees to deal with the housing problem.

"We have had," says Mrs. Archdale, "five bills for admitting women peers to the House of Lords on the same terms as men, one of which missed being passed by only two votes. When Lady Rhonda, a peeress in her own right, asked leave to sit and vote in the House of Lords, the committee of privileges first granted it, and then—through the skill of Lord Birkenhead—they met again, rediscussed the question, and reversed their decision.

"That left us in this position: that the only way now by which women can be admitted to the House of Lords is by means of legislation. We approached Mr. Ramsay MacDonald when he came into power, and he expressed himself very strongly in favor of the admission of women, but at the same time he pointed out that it was for the House of Lords itself to rescind certain decisions it had taken. We had suggested that it was up to him to make a woman a peer, and see what would happen, but even if he had made a hundred, it seems that they would have had no right to sit in the House of Lords. The decision of the committee of privileges denies women's right to sit there.

"So now we are advised not to introduce another bill at present, but to move a resolution on which the House can express itself. Should the House 'welcome the measure' suggested, we feel it will strengthen the hands of those who wish to see the change brought about. Lord Astor, who has so generously sponsored the line of bills in the past, is to move the resolution.

HOUSE OF LORDS STATIC
There is one great difference between the position now and the position in the past. This is the first time that the women's movement has really taken up the matter. In the past there has been a committee of peeresses in their own right, but the women's movement as a whole has never, till now, taken part in it. Now they realize that it must be brought to a head and definitely settled. Their view is that it is simply absurd that women should be admitted everywhere, but rejected by the House of Lords, especially when there is a woman Cabinet Minister. And now there is a woman delegate to the League of Nations. Everything of that kind moves on, but the House of Lords remains where it was. We hope very much that it will take this opportunity of showing the change of mind."

Mrs. Archdale also recalled that whenever the question of the reform of the House of Lords has been brought up, there has always been someone, like Lord Haldane, Lord Buckmaster or Lord Parmoor, to say that any scheme of reform must include the admission of women.

Mainland Trades and Labor Unions Ask Attorney-General
For Alteration

Vancouver, July 16.—At a meeting of the Vancouver and New Westminster District Trades and Labor Council yesterday evening a wire to the Provincial Attorney General, protesting against the recent new regulation regarding moving picture operators, was read and approved. The telegram indorsed the protest of the B.C. Projectionists' Association against "lowering the standard of wages and efficiency at the expense of public safety."

"The new regulation permits the employment of third-class projectionists in the uptown theatres," the wire continued. "The fire hazard has been increased since the addition of talking pictures, and we consider the regulations should be stiffened rather than relaxed. We suggest a full investigation in your present stand. The British Columbia Projectionists' Association is recognized as having the highest standard and least fire loss on the continent. The Trades and Labor Council will support them in their efforts to obtain this position."

He was held until bail bonds were obtained. Recently a police magistrate had held that no bail bonds would be issued between 8 p.m. on Saturday and the following Monday morning. This had resulted recently in the detention of an absolutely innocent man in jail overnight in spite of every effort of the company and union officials. The accident happened Saturday night and it was not until 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon that a magistrate could be found would execute bail bonds. In the meantime the man was kept in the cells.

TO INVESTIGATE BROOM SHOP
It was said in discussion that the executive had sought to hold a conference with the committee in charge of the broom works of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, but in vain. Attention of the delegates was called to a shop notice said to have been posted in the broom works stating any employee who was dissatisfied would be dismissed and his place immediately filled by another blind British Columbia resident.

It was decided to endorse the action of the Vancouver City Council in deciding to investigate conditions at the broom works, and a rider, protesting against alleged intimidation of employees, as outlined in the notice quoted was unanimously carried.

Three Killed In Apartment After Gas Fumigation

Montreal, July 16.—Three people were killed by breathing hydrocyanic gas used in fumigating an apartment house here to-night. The victims included Noah Myers, twenty-seven, and his sister, Nahma Myers, twenty-five, residents of the apartment. The third victim, not positively identified, is believed to be Katherine Theresa Boff, a friend of the Myers family.

The occupants of the house had been ordered to vacate their premises from 8 o'clock yesterday morning until 9 o'clock last night, while fumigation was being carried out. Apparently the victims returned unnoticed and entered their apartment before the gas had cleared away.

Cordova Bay

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Popham and family are spending the season at Cordova Bay.

Miss Kathleen Berry is the guest of Clarice Hopkins this week at camp "Pop Inn."

"Nine years ago I was ill for six months and have been in poor health ever since. I had severe headaches and one bilious attack after another.

"When I finally did get up on my feet I was so weak and dizzy I was almost helpless. My system was filled with poisons resulting from constipation, and my skin and the whites of my eyes turned as yellow as a pumpkin. After trying all sorts of medicines with no results, I was about ready to give up when my sister persuaded me to try Sargon.

"I haven't had a pain or ache in my body since my first bottle of Sargon. I don't have any more stomach trouble or bilious attacks. My nerves are in perfect condition, the smothering spells have disappeared, and I sleep like a child. My whole system was strengthened. I am in better health than I have been in twelve years. Sargon is worth its weight in gold.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills drove the poisons out of my body and rid me of constipation and headaches. My skin has a good healthy color and everybody says I am looking like a different person.

"I know that some people will not believe this statement, but I would be willing to go before a judge and take oath that everything I have said is true."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Cora Ball, Box No. 93, Route No. 4, North Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Ball is the mother of eleven children and is highly esteemed by her friends and neighbors. She belongs to the Christian Union Church.

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores and in New Westminster from the News Drug Co. (Adv.)

Metichosin

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of the Metichosin district was held in the school on Saturday evening. There was an average attendance, H. G. Pierce presiding. The secretary, F. F. Frude, read the minutes of the last meeting and the report of the board of trustees, showing that the discipline and general morale of the school was good, that the janitor takes pleasure in his work and gives entire satisfaction, that the lighting, heating, equipment and sanitation were all adequate and that the teacher, Miss K. Harte, gives general satisfaction.

The report submitted by the medical inspector, Dr. I. B. Hudson, showed that the environment was healthy, the air space and lighting were excellent, desks, seating, lighting and heating were adequate. The sanitary arrangements were clean and in good order but could be much improved if water could be laid on. The doctor also recommended that more attention be devoted to sports.

The school inspector reported that the buildings, seating, maps, blackboards and equipment generally were in good condition, that the management and control of the pupils were good, the teacher being well poised and of even temper and that the janitor's services were entirely satisfactory. The financial statement and the report of the auditor were received with satisfaction and all reports were approved.

Nominations for trustees resulted in F. F. Frude being re-elected by acclamation, H. C. Helgesen testifying to the capable and efficient manner in which he had carried out the duties of secretary, H. G. Pierce was re-elected as auditor with T. T. Pullen as alternate.

The chairman drew the attention of the meeting to a new regulation in the school law whereby any child residing in a rural school district and attending high school or superior school in any other district should be entitled to a grant of $5 a month from the school board as a tuition fee.

Votes of thanks were passed to H. G. Pierce for presiding and to all the trustees, F. F. Frude, G. F. Weir, and J. M. Milne, for the successful year just terminated.

Miss K. Harte will return to take charge of the school after the holidays.

McVicker. Mr. Nelson is attached to the U.S. battleship Oklahoma.

FUEL FROM AIR

Birmingham, Eng., July 16.—Dr. Herbert Levenstein yesterday told the Central Chemical industry the world might in the future live on air. Besides synthetic nitrogen, he said, the air might yet supply synthetic coal to replace fuel and the world's raw materials and power might ultimately be drawn from the air, the water, the soil and the sun. Another ten or fifteen generations would see the world's principal coal deposits exhausted, Mr. Levenstein declared.

Wheat acreage has been reduced in eighteen foreign countries which in 1929 represented thirty-eight per cent of the world total, exclusive of Russia and China.

Battalino Retains "Feather" Title In Disappointing Bout

Fernandez Unable To Stand Blows On His Glass "Elbow"

World Featherweight Champion and Dusky Filipino Stage Bout That Stirs Multitude of Emotions in Breasts of Scant Attendance; Fernandez Goes Down Six Times in Second Round From Blows That Were Invisible From Front Row; Finally Takes Count in Fifth; Cries of "Fake" Are Heard.

East Hartford, Conn., July 16.—Bat Battalino, a home town boy who made good right here, successfully defended his featherweight championship before the home folk yesterday evening and knocked out Ignacio Fernandez in five rounds of ludicrous action that stirred a multitude of emotions in the breasts of the scant observers. The little brown man from the Philippines, never counted out before in a career that has taken in bitter battles with the roughest and toughest punchers in the featherweight and lightweight divisions, put up an exhibition that had even Battalino's rooters laughing in derision while most of the crowd hooted "fake" and playfully demanded the local pride signal them before the finishing punch.

SAANICH SCORE WIN TO CAPTURE LEAGUE HONORS

Thistles Defeat Plimleys 6-2; Now Champions of Softball, Section "A"

Will Meet Winner of Jokers-Moore and Whittington Series For Championship

Saanich Thistles won the Victoria and District Section "A" softball championship yesterday evening at Central Park by downing Plimley and Ritchie 6 to 2. The win climaxed a most successful season for the Thistles, and earned them the right to meet the winners of the Jokers-Moore and Whittington series for the all-Victoria title. The men from the open spaces have won through the whole season without losing a game, and have won both first and second half honors without difficulty. Bill Putnam's fine mound work and the heavy hitting of his battery mates, Roland Moody, were the features of a well-played game. Putnam held the cycle men in the hollow of his hand until the ninth, when he eased to allow them to score their only two runs. Meanwhile Moody was clubbing his teammates home with a brace of circus clouts. Turner pitched a good game for Plimley and Ritchie, but was accorded somewhat shaky support from his outfield. Ernie Block officiated behind the bat and L. Saxton on the bases. The score by innings follows: Plimley and Ritchie 000000000-2 Saanich Thistles 0101002-6 The teams follow: Plimley—Constable, Tyrell, Bissell, Jackson, D. Stewart, Thomson, Rosseter, W. Turner and C. Turner. Saanich—Putnam, Harper, Bowden, Dealer, Price, Moody, Viggers, Farquhar and Purdy.

Standard Steam Laundry will play the Axioms this evening at 6:45 o'clock, at the Central Park, in the only scheduled game in the Women's City Softball League. Barney Barnwell and Tommy Drysdale will umpire.

It was Battalino's first title defence since winning the 126-pound crown from Andre Routs in this same arena last September. As early as the first round it became obvious to those down front that Fernandez, one of the stiffest punchers in his division and hitherto impregnable to the stiffest of punches, was not long for the challenging role. He punched with extreme care and was unable to hit Battalino anywhere but the elbows and shoulders. The champion boxed carefully through the opening session and most of the work was slow and at close quarters.

DOWN SIX TIMES
The struggle went into its climax with an amazing succession in the third round when Fernandez slugged on the elbow with ruinous effect by the opening punch, went to the canvas six times before the closing bell rang. He was down for counts of 5, 6, 3, 3, 1 and 4 before the gong called a temporary halt.

The Filipino gave an amazing exhibition each time he tumbled to the floor, rolling and struggling around the ring, flexing his body and bridging on his toes and hands but always rising directly to carry on. The punches that put him down, after the first sock on his "glass" elbow, were all but indistinguishable from the front row. The crowd that numbered about 9,000 and paid about $20,000 to see the local pride defend his crown, turned on Battalino after the second round and great and great laughter each time the light hitting champion battered Fernandez into a state of apparent dizziness in the second and third rounds.

Fernandez did little or no punching in these sessions and appeared to be rocked by almost every blow Battalino tossed his way.

VULNERABLE WING
With the crowd roaring disapproval, Bat went out to finish his man in the fifth round. He started him going with another punch to the vulnerable side, finally cornered the moored brown man on the ropes and floored him with a left hook and a right to the chin. Ignacio dropped on his face, rolled over and was counted out without a struggle. The fifth round lasted two minutes, fifty seconds. Fernandez and Battalino met here in February in a bout went ten rounds to a decision, although the Filipino had the titleholder on the floor at one time in the overlight contest. Yesterday evening Ignacio came in as the featherweight limit of 125 pounds while the champion scaled 125½. Battalino for all the cries of fake and the vaudeville ending, appeared to have improved since he won the title from Route last September. Ignacio's handlers base the poor showing of their charge on the strenuous time he had to remove 1½ pounds in a steam chamber before weighing in for the match Monday. They claimed weakened him.

Cubs Score First Victory in Junior Baseball League

The Victoria Cubs checked in with their initial win in the Junior Baseball League yesterday evening at Beacon Hill Park when they downed the Beavers in a slug-fest by 13 to 9. Tommy Drysdale held the Beavers throughout and helped to win his own game with a home run. To-morrow evening the Nippones will clash with the Beavers at Beacon Hill, starting at 6:30 o'clock. W. Simpson will call the balls and strikes. At present all three teams are double-locked for the lead, and both squads will be anxious to turn in a win and climb in the standing.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Do we ever stop to think that we often discipline our children according to what is good for us, not what is good for them?

I believe that if we stop to consider whether the things we do not allow them to do are being judged by our own reactions instead of theirs, we should be quicker to give permission.

When we are scolding a child, what are we doing? Trying to bring out his own sense of wrong and a higher responsibility? Or are we merely getting rid of a personal peevishness bottled up to the explosive point and turning it on the culprit? After we've spit it out we feel better. Pure nervous reaction! Nature takes that way to relieve our minds. We are just as likely to scold a child after he's had a narrow escape from being run over or for eating something he shouldn't have eaten—why? Because our shock over what might have happened on the street or our resentment of illness that might yet result from his eating must have an explosion to give it relief. We benefited by getting rid of our bottled up emotion, but Johnny is the sufferer off by one more scolding which he didn't deserve and which only added to his resentment or perplexity.

HOW OBSTINACY IS BREED

If children could understand the motives behind all our cross words there probably wouldn't be so much harm done. For children want a just reprimand. But it stands to reason that a much-scolded child will become obstinate, surly, and wilfully disobedient in time if he endures continual injustice.

They are great little philosophers in their way. It is wonderful how they figure things out, lacking experience and knowledge as they do. There isn't any doubt in the world that the child of a scolding parent, who is wrong no matter what he does, analyzes the situation pretty well on the whole. He knows that there is more wrong with his parent than with himself—loses the illusion of ideal in that parent, and thence goes faith, confidence, and lastly, obedience.

Then too—there are our "prohibitions," call them "inhibition," "suppressions," anything you like—the things we are afraid of that hold us back. We are poor, fear-ridden creatures at best, all of us.

LET'S ANALYZE OURSELVES

Why don't we allow John or Mary to do this or that or something else? Because we are afraid it isn't good for them? Let's be honest. Nine times out of ten it is ourselves we are nursing. We are ostensibly protecting them, but in reality, feeding off any chance of our suffering through them. Again, we often expect obedience not because we think it good for the children, but because a fracture of our discipline hurts our pride, instantly our ego has been overthrown! We dare our children to have stronger wills than ours.

These are only a few of the motives behind training to the child's good, but are merely sops to our own self-interest. The mother who honestly tries to guide her child will ask herself first, "Is this the best for him, or am I protecting my own feelings?" That's a true test.

Chemistry Knowledge Helps to Build a Healthier Race

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Chemistry to the average man means the pouring of two fluids together in a tube with some sort of reaction taking place in the form of a precipitate or the development of gas. He does not realize that in every cell of his own body chemical actions are constantly going on, building up new materials, breaking down and eliminating old materials, providing energy, causing and preventing disease.

The continuance of life is dependent on this constant series of chemical reactions, and modern medicine is greatly dependent on the knowledge that the chemist's living materials have furnished in order that it may aid the patient in time of disease.

Only recently has there come to be a full understanding of what is known as the deficiency diseases. In the absence of certain substances from the body, diseases develop and by the provision of these substances the diseases may be prevented, and unless the changes are too great, they may be corrected. Thus vitamin D and calcium and phosphorus prevent rickets, iodine helps to prevent simple goiter, other vitamins prevent various diseases of the eye and disturbances of digestion.

Most of the body tissue is composed of protein. Protein is the kind of substance that occurs in white of egg, in gelatin, in cheese, in cottage cheese or casein, and in meats and blood. Protein is, however, merely a general name for combinations of various simpler chemicals.

When proteins are taken into the stomach they are broken down into the simpler chemicals and the simpler substances are carried to the organs and there used in building human tissue.

Sugars and starches are broken down and carried to the liver and muscles, where they are redeposited as glycogen and used for energy and warmth.

In most tables of food values it is customary to include as the main headings—protein, fat and carbohydrate. The rest of the material, and sometimes the largest part of it, consists of water, mineral salts and indigestible material.

For example, milk contains 3.3 per cent. protein, 4 per cent. fat, 4 per cent. carbohydrate, and the rest is water and mineral salts. Meats are rich in protein and fat and very poor in carbohydrates. Indeed, only the liver contains any considerable percentage of this substance; namely, about one to two per cent.

On the other hand, fruits and vegetables are rich in carbohydrates, poor in fat, and contain varying quantities of protein.

Big Sisters Made Fun of Joshua's
Pictures
Joshua Reynolds and his big sisters drew pictures on the white-washed walls of the long passageway that led from the kitchen. They drew with the burnt ends of sticks. They weren't being naughty. They wanted to make pictures, and since the family was too poor to afford paper and pencils, a luxury in those days, they were allowed to draw on the wall, which could be washed off very easily.

The two sisters made much better pictures than Joshua did. They copied primly out of books, and made stiff, proper little girls, and square little houses. Joshua drew to suit his fancy, any they thought his pictures very funny.

Joshua's pictures always look like clowns," laughed one of the sisters.
"He is a little clown himself," teased
the other.

So they nicknamed him "the clown," and laughed merrily at every new
washed wall.

Sir Joshua Reynolds, born in England, July 16, 1723, became one of the greatest painters in the whole history of art.

NEW AIR LINE CONNECTS CHIEF CITIES OF BRITAIN

London, July 16.—The new inland air line connecting London with Birmingham, Manchester and Liverpool was opened when the City of Coventry left Croydon aerodrome with twelve passengers.

The service is being maintained thrice weekly, and will connect with the Continental services from Croydon.
The plane, a twenty-seater triple-engined Argosy air liner, took off with its passengers at 5.15 at night, and beneath low-lying clouds flitted over the quiet acres of middle England, only the swiftly-changing scenes and the hum of the giant engines denoting her swift progress.

At 6 o'clock, with Brackley on her starboard, the steward passed between the two rows of armchairs, and served light refreshments. Kenilworth, with the walls of the castle ruins to the port side, soon appeared, and at 6.35
the liner was gliding and circling down on the aerodrome at Birmingham.

where for five minutes the passengers stretched their legs and enjoyed a smoke, which is prohibited on board.
A few rushing moments of speed over the ground, the airplane rose and the whole glorious panorama of Warwickshire and Staffordshire lay beneath.

The lakes and rivulets reflecting in the sun, Manchester was reached at 7.30, and after a five minutes' stop the liner left for Liverpool, where it arrived twenty minutes later.

The fare for the whole journey, which occupies about two and three-quarters hours, is 28 sh. and opportunities are afforded of trips from town to town if the liner is not full.

The new line is likely to stimulate many obscure points of air service operation in the British Isles. It has been stated that the incidence of accidents in industrial areas is so high that the operation of a regular air line in such districts is impossible. Imperial Airways pilots may now be relied upon to penetrate thick mist and moderate fog, but it will be instructive to see how often they are prevented from reaching their aerodromes on time during the next three months. This is not the worst season for fog, but the large towns are often shrouded in a dense haze, seriously interfering with the viability of a pilot traveling at 100 m.p.h.

AT PHILCO MEET

A. M. JAGOE

Managing director of Radio Sales Service Ltd., British Columbia, and Yukon distributors of Philco radio, Mr.
Jagoe presided at the sales conference of Philco dealers at Hotel Vancouver Monday night. With more than 100
dealers and salesmen in attendance, the conference was one of the most successful yet held.

The chief speaker was Harry Boyd
Brown of Philadelphia, national director of retail sales, who predicted that the present year would be one of the most outstanding in the history of the organization. He also suggested to the gatherings that they should think in terms of optimism. After a careful check of conditions throughout the country, he said, he had found a more optimistic note prevailing and predicted a return to real prosperity by fall.

Other speakers included G. L. Mc-Whorter, manager Pacific Coast division, San Francisco; Frank Kratz, service representative, San Francisco; H.
C. Rose, western representative, Philco products, and William Robb, western manager, Canadian Acceptance Corporation. An added feature of the conference was the showing of moving pictures depicting the different stages of manufacture of Philco products.

SCOTLAND YARD FINDS NEW TEST OF FINGER PRINTS

London, July 16.—Scotland Yard experts have been experimenting to find a simpler way of detecting criminals through finger impressions, and after much study and research Chief Inspector Battley has evolved a method which will probably be adopted by the police of all countries.

Occasions are rare when more than one clear digital print is left behind by a thief, so that if the known difference in the patterns of finger prints is to be used at all successfully to detect criminals, it must be by a single finger-print system.

Such a system, introduced by Inspector Collins, Mr. Battley's predecessor, has been in use for the past seven years, but it had many drawbacks.
Searching for a duplicate in the bureau collection of some 4,000 single impressions was found long and difficult, and the few identifications made did not justify the time and labor expended. Mr. Battley has worked to provide a satisfactory method of clas-sifying and filing finger-prints, which can easily and readily be identified with finger marks found at the scenes of crime.

He explains his system in a book which will be published by the Stationary Office. The author's secret lies in a special glass with a centre spot and seven concentric circles. Thus a circular area is taken for scrutiny.
Taken alone, ridge characteristics—the abrupt beginnings and endings by bifurcations, etc., in the papillary ridges—have been found unreliable as a basis of classification for single prints, as they assume different forms according to varying pressures. Mr.
Battley has provided important new sub-groups for classification by noting the particular circles on his glass in which specified points of a print fall,
and their relationship to each other.

contributions of between 500 and 700

"Tower" and Alfred P. Mardman's
"Jane."

Probably the most interesting feature of the exhibition is the conspicuous place taken in it by little-known painters. One is constantly, in a round of the large gallery especially, coming across delightful canvases bearing unfamiliar names, chiefly women.

Miss Rhona Hammersy, "La Coupe Sark," Miss Eve Kirk's "An Italian Market Place," Miss Gladys M.
Baker's "The Lady Who Collected Things," and Mrs. Bassett Wilson's "Chrysanthemums" are canvases in point.

It is true that an English soaring contest took place at Ifford Hill, in Sussex, eight years ago, but for some inexplicable reason public interest in it waned, despite its demonstrably unique and meritorious features. A few months ago, however, gliding suddenly came to the fore again as a result of news of its amazing development on the Continent. Gliding clubs sprang into existence in a number of centres, and many people who had always wanted to fly but had never before owned a light airplane began to participate in the thrills and joys of engineless flight.

Gliders
were obtained from Germany and used experimentally over here long before a British firm of aircraft constructors turned their attention to building motorless airplanes in answer to popular demand, and now we have even schoolboys constructing and piloting these fascinating craft and becoming competent glider pilots.

The movement was recently given additional impetus by the offer, by A.
J. Wallace Hargreaves, of the firm of Cee-lon Limited, of a prize of £1,000 for the first flight across the English Channel in a soar-plane before May 31, 1932, and in view of the high degree of achievement now being reached with these very promising light aircraft it is predicted that the prize will be won before many months have elapsed.

The art of gliding is virtually a getting-back to the elemental flight of birds. The large bird, and particularly the sea bird, will fly for very long periods with almost motionless wings, and by utilizing the supporting air-currents, cover large distances apparently without effort. Thus a bird's playa a marked zero-dynamic efficiency, and the motorless glider-plane acts in almost the same way.

British Taking To Gliding Now

London, July 16.—Gliding as a branch of aeronautics is nearly half a century old, but as a sport it is not more than ten years old in Germany and America and only two or three in this country.

Big kernels in small shells

IN ADDITION to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper.
That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile —possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "Used Car" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

Read the advertisements for your own good... classified columns as well as display advertisements.

DICKIE TELLS OF HIS WORK FOR NANAIMO

Conservative Candidate Answers Opponent's Queries at Lake Hill Meeting

Advocates Protection for Canadian Industries to Help Unemployed

Answers to questions on his work since he was elected to the Federal House, advocacy of protection for Canadian industries and criticism of the King administration, featured the address of C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate for the Federal riding of Nanaimo at Lake Hill yesterday evening.

D. B. Plunkett, candidate for Victoria, spoke in support of the Nanaimo Conservative.

Approximately sixty people were in the Community Hall to hear the addresses.

In answer to his opponent's query "Can anyone tell me what Mr. Dickie has done for Nanaimo since he has been elected?" Mr. Dickie spoke of some of the work he had carried out as a member.

MR. DICKIE'S WORK

"I have tried to build up our raw materials into industries, to keep our boys and girls at home and generally build up a respectable country," the Nanaimo Conservative said.

He noted that he had played a conspicuous part in the building of the Esquimalt drydock, and had voiced his conviction in the value of the extension of the Canadian National Railway on Vancouver Island, so strongly that he had re-opened it in the Senate and alone had carried it through.

In 1921 he had secured a $40,000 appropriation for dredging in the Nanaimo harbor, and further he had secured considerable grants for wharves around the Islands.

He directed fire upon the manner in which his opponent C. H. O'Halloran, Liberal candidate, had claimed the honor for securing the latter appropriations.

"Last year I said it gave me a great deal of pleasure to oppose a candidate who was a gentleman in every respect. To-night, ladies and gentlemen, you will excuse me from saying that." He alleged the King government had done very little to reduce the national debt and had done that little by subterfuge.

Nearly a million and one-quarter Canadians have emigrated from the land to the U.S., Mr. Dickie stated. He said that how more were drifting across the U.S. line and asked why this was allowed by the government. "We have allowed our raw material to be manufactured by our people in the United States and then sold back to us to further enrich the U.S.," he claimed.

"For years we have advocated protection but not until the eve of the election did the Liberals show any interest in the matter," Mr. Dickie added.

At some length he spoke of the countervailing duties. "Under the present system we are a laughing stock to the people across the line," he stated, adding that Conservatives are not afraid to demand a duty on United States goods coming into Canada.

Further Mr. Dickie alleged the dumping policies of the United States were being accepted meekly by the Canadians.

"But we're not going to suffer it after July 28," he declared.

Illustrating the case of England's free trade and its deleterious effect on the land, the speaker intimated the system was out of date. He then traced the growth of tariffs in the United States, showing how it had built up prosperity and industrial development in that land.

"We cannot do the same in Canada," asked Mr. Dickie, noting that this country had both factories and raw materials for such development.

"Keep the money in the country and you will keep up the population. If we follow this course we can keep another million people here and can also secure the unemployed," he stated.

AUSTRALIAN TREATY

At some length he spoke of the Australian treaty, saying that the Canadian agricultural element was paying the price for the concessions other Canadian industries enjoyed. The Conservatives had opposed the move, but had eventually fallen in line without seeing what the United States dairy men would do, he stated. When the United States raised the tariff on dairy produce from this land, Canada had been forced to impose a dumping duty on Australian butter. Thereby the land and lost prestige with the Antipodes, Mr. Dickie said. The similar New Zealand treaty had also proved disastrous to Canadian dairymen. Hence, on the eve of the election, the King Government had abrogated the pact. "But until the treaty is annulled, Canadian dairymen will suffer acutely," he claimed.

Mr. Dickie advocated the necessity of reciprocal agreements between the units of the British Empire.

"If 10,000 people are employed in Canada, it is just as good for the British Empire as if 10,000 men were employed in England," he asserted.

"We want to build up this empire and by building up Canada we can accomplish a great deal more than otherwise."

"You cannot trust the Liberal Party to pursue a protection course in Canada," Mr. Dickie added.

The speaker touched lightly on the returned soldiers' question, saying that each party was equally responsible for beneficial action. It was not a political issue but one forwarded by the soldiers' bodies of Canada, he maintained.

WOULD NOT BE PROFITEERS

Regarding the protection of industries, Mr. Dickie refused to admit the theory that industrial firms assisted by the policy would become profiteers.

He directed a parting thrust at Premier King's "Five Cent Piece" speech, characterizing it as "the most dastardly thing anyone could say."

In conclusion he urged the gathering to oblige personalities in the coming election and to vote for the aims of the Conservative Party.

Preceding Mr. Dickie, D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate for Victoria, addressed the gathering, paying high tribute to the Nanaimo representative of his party and directing criticism against the Liberal administration.

Speaking of his friendship with Mr. Dickie, Mr. Plunkett noted he liked old institutions and old ideals and inferred that he found in the Nanaimo representative the embodiment of these.

He quoted from a declaration by R. B. Bennett, in which the opposition leader had stated "I am not going to go up and down Canada making statements which I do not intend to carry out."

This, Mr. Plunkett held, was an illustration of the honesty of the party.

ASSISTANCE IN SAANICH

He criticized the Liberal Government for its lack of interest in the Saanich fruit and vegetable question, saying that it was not until the eve of the election that the government had made any provision to safeguard these industries of Vancouver Island.

The old age pension was not nearly as effective as it should be, he claimed, saying that the government had not carried out legislation in this matter to a large enough extent.

With Mr. Bennett's famous "blasting" tactics, he criticized the Liberal administration.

"Mr. King," he asserted, "has blasted the dairy herds out of the country and has blasted United States capital into Canada."

Referring to the budget, Mr. Plunkett pointed out the fact that the Liberal administration had made no provision for the textile industry. "Mr. King himself had shown his failure to do anything for labor when he had refused to help the unemployed," the speaker said.

During the evening, Mrs. Dickie contributed several vocal selections to the programme.

Before introducing the speakers, A. E. Sherwood, chairman, urged the audience to turn out in force for the election. He advised those ignorant of Parliamentary procedure, that the committee as had been the case two years ago.

Shirley

Lightning on Saturday evening struck the barn on the property of Mrs. M. A. Clark, starting a fire which completely destroyed it in a short time. The barn was valued at about $1,000 and was partially insured. Mrs. Clark was unable to leave the children and for help, W. J. Mulligan and George Davis kept the fire from spreading to the bush and on Sunday morning the fire wardens put the fire out.

Mrs. Campbell, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Le Huquet, with their son and daughter, were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson's Malahat farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Clark and sons were visitors in Port Angeles on Sunday.

The annual school meeting was held at the school house on Saturday evening. E. T. Arden was re-elected trustee and Mrs. M. A. Clark was re-elected auditor for the coming year. An assessment of $200 was passed for expenses. A grant of $15, asked by the Shirley woman's institute for a monthly visit by a nurse to the school was denied.

Ends Piles Quick

Without Slices or Cutting

Piles also caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal medicine can remove the cause. That's why slices and cutting fail. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Lechman, removes this congestion and strengthens the affected parts.

HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere and has such a wonderful record of success even in chronic and stubborn cases that McParlane and Vancouver Drug Stores advise every sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantee money-back if it does not end all Pile misery. (Adv.)

Addition of New Classes to Programme Expected to Make Event More Colorful

Addition of new competitions to the programme of the Victoria Horticultural Society's seventh annual show in the Shrine Auditorium, View Street, on Friday and Saturday, August 1 and 2, promises to add to the color of the spectacular event this year.

It is hoped that all women's institutes and kindred organizations will enter exhibits in the new classes and swell the number of displays in the show.

The space given for hardy cut flowers will be three feet by nine feet.

Mayor Anson has donated a silver flower basket. The district display of roses, consisting of twenty-four varieties, should prove a very attractive class. The society has, as a result of repeated requests, reintroduced decorated tables open both to ladies and gentlemen. The judging of this section will be by popular vote. Each visitor to the exhibition on Friday will have the privilege of voting and expressing his or her opinion on the relative tastes displayed by the various competitors. The sweet pea section promises to be a very attractive display as well as numerous commercial divisions in this section.

Dr. A. G. Price, vice-president of the society has donated a challenge trophy for the best individual exhibit, while Fred Cousins will encourage the novices with three prizes in that class. As an additional feature the society will run a tombola in connection with the admission tickets.

Ten prizes are being offered and will be drawn for on the closing night.

These tickets are being distributed by members of the society and are meeting a ready sale. Those intending to enter the show are advised to get a prize list from any of the floral stores or from the secretary, F. E. Boulter, 538 Obed Avenue. Phone 78223.

Road Roller Has Diesel Engine

Brookville, Ont., July 16.—While United States agents are making experiments to test the use of Diesel engines in motor cars and airplanes, this municipality is putting them to practical use for locomotion on land.

First of its kind in Canada and, as far as Canadian engineers know, on the continent, a Diesel road roller is now in service on the city's streets.

The equipment was given a civic reception on its arrival from England. Both Mayor Donaldson and Alderman Hall, chairman of the works committee, watched it in operation. It weighs twelve tons and can go fifteen days without refueling.

British made, its arrival is one of the early tangible evidences of increased Empire trade.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, July 16.—Wheat: The beam and shorts were on the defensive right from the opening this morning, starting prices being about 2½ cents higher than the close on Monday. There were reports of a much-improved export business the last two or three days, about 3,000,000 bushels having been worked this week, but this was not all Canadian by any means, and was probably evenly divided between American hard winters, Durums and Manitobas.

While Winnipeg was closed yesterday, both Liverpool and Chicago made substantial advances and Liverpool was higher again to-day, closing 1½ to 1½ up. There was fairly good buying by export houses and by New York investors during the first period to-day, but offers were fairly liberal on the bulge, longs taking profits, the pool selling July, but more particularly October, at 81 or better, with some selling against daily offers on the extreme bulge. The demand was finally filled up and prices eased off, losing the greater part of the earlier advance.

In the cash market there was a good general shippers demand for most grades, and spreads on some grades were 1½ to 2½ cents higher than at the close of last week.

Millers reported export flour closing as continuing very slow and on a moderate domestic trade passing.

The weather in western Canada was clear and decidedly warm the last two days, but showers were reported as falling at some points to-day which caused an easier feeling. However, reports received from the west are generally pessimistic with the crop suffering from the lack of sufficient moisture and high temperatures.

European markets were also more bullish to-day, with indications that their crops are going to be much smaller than last year. Wheat closed 1½ to 1½ higher.

Coarse grains—Oats and rye were very erratic in the nearby position, with July at one time being 9 cents higher, but closed 3 cents up with the deferred month about 1 cent higher. There was scattered short covering, but demand for cash very quiet.

There Is No More Pathetic Problem in World Than That of the Mother who Sacrifices Her Life to Her Children, and Then, by Her Very Love Wrecks the Happiness of Those She Toiled to Aid

THE MOST pathetic and the most insoluble problem in the world is that of the mother who has given her life to her children and who exacts as frequently the case, he desires her, leaving her with a house full of little children. Through incredible labor and self-sacrifice she keeps her little family together. She goes hungry that they may have food. She goes shabby that they may have decent clothes. She labors all day and half the night that they may be kept in school and given an education.

The thing that sustains her through all the years of toil and deprivation is the thought that when her boys and girls are grown she will have her reward. She looks forward to the time when strong young hands will lift the burden from her shoulders and grateful children will shower her with luxuries. When her feet stumble through sheer weariness she flogs herself on with the thought of how she will rest and sit in idleness when the children are grown.

She literally endures the hardships of the present because she lives in a castle in Spain in which she sees herself a cherished figure in her children's household, a beloved oracle to whom her sons and her daughters and their wives and husbands and children gladly defer and at whose feet they will kneel to learn wisdom.

Then the children grow up and go about the business of life for themselves. They are good and dutiful young people, filled with gratitude and appreciation of all that their mother has done for them and willing to divide with her every cent they make and as long as they stay at home they keep mother happy and contented.

But these young people are human. They fall in love. They marry and set up homes and have children of their own, and then the trouble begins, for the great majority of them do not make enough money to maintain two establishments and keep mother in a house of her own.

Nor does mother desire to live alone. She wants to live with her children. Since her first baby was born she has never had a thought nor an interest that wasn't settled in Tom and Mary and Sally and Joe, and the slightest thing that they do is of more importance to her than a world movement. It is more momentous to her for Tom to find a dime on the street than for Byrd to discover a continent in the Antarctic.

She literally has no life apart from her children, no resources in herself that would enable her to entertain and amuse herself and find happiness away from them. Even her devotion does not go far enough to make her willing to live apart from them. That is one sacrifice beyond even mother love.

Now the children have also always thought that mother would live with them when they married, but when she does so nine times out of ten it spells misery for all concerned. For mother in real life is not the gentle, placid, saint-like being that she is in fiction. Nor does she brood over a household like the dove of peace. On the contrary, she is a stormy petrel who is the forerunner of domestic tempests that often wreck a marriage.

For, while mother may be a heroine and a female angel, she is not always easy to live with. The very qualities that enabled her to buck up and fight the world for her children's sake do not make her adaptable or complacent or tactful in dealing with her in-laws. Rather they give her a conceit of her own opinion and a narrowness of view that makes her certain that her way is the only way of doing things, and that she has a perfect right to run her children's lives after they are married, just as she did before.

Naturally the sons-in-law and the daughters-in-law object to this and trouble ensues. They feel that they have a right to their own homes without the presence in it of an interfering old woman, who is querulous and fault-finding and who flouts the baby books and scoffs at vitamins because she didn't rear her children that way, and who keeps an eye on the garbage can and spouts when son-in-law smokes in the living-room, and throws fits every time daughter-in-law goes to a bridge party or gets a new dress.

That is the situation in tens of thousands of homes that would otherwise be happy and peaceful except for the presence of mother-of-mother to whom the children owe so much and for whom they would be willing to die, but with whom they cannot live. Tom and Mary look at mother and think of the times they have seen her down on her knees scrubbing office floors, or plodding through wintry or summer mud from door to door selling piteous little things, or of long nights when the whirl of her sewing machine went on until almost dawn, and they feel that nothing they can do for her can ever be enough.

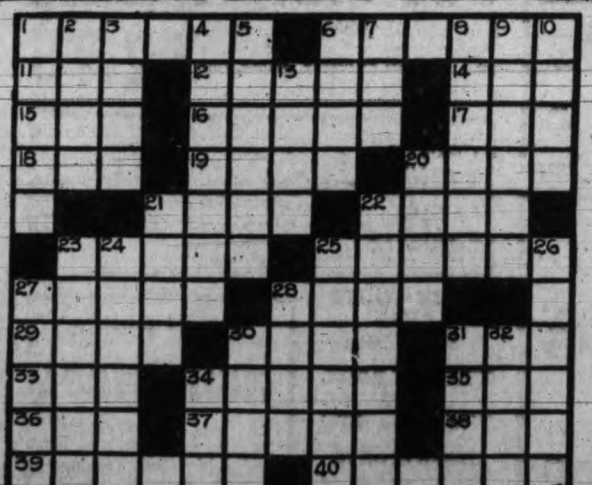

And then they see mother breaking up their homes. Mother quarreling with Tom's wife over everything that goes on in the house. Mother antagonizing Mary's husband and driving him away from home to spend his evenings. Mother in a never-ending feud with the children over everything they do because they didn't do that way in her day. And their hearts are torn in twain between love and duty to their mother and love and duty to their wives and husbands and children.

And mother's heart breaks over the ingratitude of her children, the children to whom she has given the work of her hands and the devotion of her soul and who begrudge her even a chair by their fireplaces in her old age. And she can't see that it is her own fault. And she couldn't change even if she wanted to.

And only Almighty Wisdom itself knows what is best to do in such a case. DOROTHY DIX.

Walter Catlett, Sue Carol, Nick Stuart and other comedy favorites are featured and Raymond Cannon's direction.

One of the best known of the picture celebrities estates was used for several spectacular sequences in a new talking picture. It was the Flintridge home of James Cruze, the director. This is the first time that the James Cruze-Betty Compson ménage, where visiting stage and literary personages are always certain of a royal welcome, has been made available for studio purposes. "Hello Sister" is the current attraction at the Columbia Theatre.

FAMOUS BROADWAY ACTRESS HAS LEAD AT THE CAPITOL

Those sticklers for tradition who have insisted that the delicious Lady Kitty of W. Somerset Maugham's play, "The Circle," should always be played by a red-haired woman, since the original success of the titan-headed Mrs. Leslie Carter, are sure to be satisfied with "Strictly Unconventional," M-G-M's talking picture version of the drama, which will be seen for the last time to-night at the Capitol Theatre.

NAUTICAL SCENES ARE THRILLING IN COLISEUM FEATURE

A ship, with acoustically treated hull and complete sound installation, was a veritable floating studio for the filming of "The Ship From Shanghai," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sea drama now playing at the Coliseum Theatre. The play, a filmization of Dale Collin's "Ordeal," was directed by Charles Brobin, of "Bridge of San Luis Rey" fame. Conrad Nagel, Kay Johnson and Louis Wolheim have important roles.

DOMINION SHOWING NORMA SHEARER IN STORY OF DIVORCE

Oddly enough, all the principal players in "The Divorcee," which is now at the Dominion Theatre as a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, are happily married.

Norma Shearer, the star, is known as one of filmdom's happiest wives. Then there are Chester Morris, Robert Montgomery, Tyler Brooke, Conrad Nagel and Florence Eldridge, drama director, also a contented member of the matrimonial fraternity.

In the purification of the Ursula Parrott story, the players have roles depicting the futility of single-standard moral experiments.

O'Halloran Calls On Imperialists To Back Budget of Mr. Dunning

Vote Against It Means Move to Dismember Canada
From Empire, Declares Nanaimo Liberal Candidate at Oak Bay Meeting; Stuart Henderson Reveals Poor Record of Mr. Bennett in Politics; Legislation for Housewife and Home Described by Mrs. Paul Smith.

In a stirring appeal for closer empire unity through the British preference, for greater Canadian trade made possible through the Dunning budget, and for the return of a government which had shown a splendid record in the past, C. H. O'Halloran, candidate for Nanaimo Federal riding, yesterday evening bid for support of the Oak Bay electorate at his meeting in St. Mary's Hall.

Hearty handclapping punctuated Mr. O'Halloran's remarks throughout, and his references to empire trade were met with loud applause.

The candidate confined his remarks mostly to the Dunning budget and its various aspects, then going on to answer criticisms of his candidature made by C. H. Dickie, his Conservative opponent.

In support of Mr. O'Halloran, Stuart Henderson, Victoria Liberal candidate, and Mrs. Paul Smith, widely-known woman speaker of Vancouver, addressed the meeting.

POOR RECORD OF MR. BENNETT
Mr. Henderson discussed the general aspects of the campaign, and took some time to outline the poor record of Mr. Bennett as leader of the Conservative party.

Mrs. Smith dealt with the record of the King administration from the viewpoint of the home, discussing various ways in which the legislation enforced by the Liberal Government had lightened the burden on the housewife and the husband.

The whole meeting was broadcast by radio.

In his opening remarks, Mr. O'Halloran referred to the fact that the campaign had started for him on June 4. Since that date he had spoken every day, every day, sometimes twice a day and had met something like 3,000 people, gaining an intimate knowledge of the constituency's problems.

Mr. O'Halloran paid tribute to his fellow speakers and expressed thanks for their support.

IMPORTANT POLICY
First, said the candidate, he would discuss the Dunning budget, "one of the most important policies placed before the people of Canada in the last few decades." It was a trade policy and one designed, not only for the benefit of Canada, but for the Empire as a whole.

Division of the steel and iron trade of Canada from the United States to Britain was aimed at in the budget. Canada purchased $250,000,000 worth of these products from the U.S. By giving British steel and iron preference, the trade would be diverted to the Mother Country, incidentally effecting a saving of $50,000,000 yearly to the Canadian buyers, and the Canadian people. Britain would gain through this because its steel and iron industry would be enlarged by Canadian orders. The British employment situation would benefit greatly from this policy.

"The Dunning budget is the greatest advance in Imperial relations since the war," had been the comment of The Daily Express, London, on the budget, said Mr. O'Halloran.

LUMBER TRADE
British Columbia's lumber trade was then dealt with by the speaker, who pointed out that the British Isles imported only 10 per cent of its timber products from the other parts of the British Empire. The States of Washington and Oregon shipped a much greater amount of lumber to the United Kingdom than did B.C.

Lack of ships and lack of efficient sales organizations were blamed by lumbermen for the situation existing in regard to B.C. By providing direct steamship lines to the United Kingdom, the government was helping to relieve this situation. With regard to the second point, the matter of sales organization for Empire goods was discussed at the Imperial Economic Conference as a part of its plan to develop Empire trade. The Dunning budget was designed to aid this development.

Mr. O'Halloran broke off at this point to quote an article in The Vancouver Province which the rapid development of the B.C.-West Indies trade had been described as due to the subsidization of direct steamship service.

Answering an alleged statement of C. H. Dickie, the Conservative candidate, that "Conservatives had always favored British preference and the Liberal government had been doing it for years," Mr. O'Halloran quoted The London Post to the effect that Canada's government had always followed a policy of British preference.

leading Conservative journal in the Province. And no explanation had been made by Mr. Dickie.

Mr. Dickie claimed to have been responsible for the completion of the Esquimalt drydock, the speaker continued, describing how four delegates from the Victoria Board of Trade had gone to Ottawa in 1922 to advocate the completion of the dock. If Mr. Dickie had done anything in a public way to forward the project, no one knew it except Mr. Dickie.

WHERE WAS CREDIT?
Mr. Dickie had claimed credit in connection with the building of the Cowichan Lake branch railway. This work in connection with a large G.N.R. programme, had been turned down by the Conservative majority in the Senate on the first hearing and had passed the next year.

"If Mr. Dickie wished to claim kudos for persuading Vancouver Island's three Senators to vote for the work he was welcome to it," said the speaker.

"I charge Mr. Dickie with insincerity in his claims," the candidate declared. He always had been in the position of living as a parasite on the back of the living should be kept as low as possible. That affects every home," declared Mrs. Smith, going on to outline his real activities and other means by which this had been effected.

Fostering of industry in order that there might be work for the people of Canada had always been a policy of the King government, she declared, referring to the fact that there were 23,000 established industrial plants in Canada with a combined capital of over $40,000,000,000.

Appleton Industries in a flourishing condition the export market had been expanded through the making of fifty-three trade treaties with other countries, he declared. The Conservatives proposed to scrap these treaties and force their way into these markets rather than secure them by peaceful penetration, she added.

"Big business interests to-day are supporting the King administration for this very reason. They do not want to see these treaties abrogated," she declared. "They know their interests will not be jeopardized under the King government."

PENSION AID
Provisions for "border line" pension cases and for the men prematurely "worn out" through the war, had also been made by the Liberal administration, she pointed out. Old age pension legislation was another very beneficial piece of work.

"British preference," outlined in the Dunning budget, summed up the future policy of the Liberal party, Mrs. Smith said. Undoubtedly it would be of great benefit to Canada as well as the Empire as a whole.

Applause punctuated Mrs. Smith's address during her discussion of this topic.

"Not only from the patriotic point of view, but from that of straight business, it will be the best interests of Canada, the Old Land and the sister Dominions."

In conclusion Mrs. Smith said: "The record of the King administration has been good, the policy of British preference for the future is good. When you go to the polls on July 28 and mark a cross opposite the name O'Halloran, you will do your part in expressing appreciation of this administration."

A. D. Macfarlane, K.O., in his opening remarks as chairman paid tribute to Mrs. Smith and the two candidates, Mr. O'Halloran for Nanaimo riding, and Mr. Henderson for Victoria. He referred to Mr. Henderson's lengthy connection with the city.

Henderson declared it was a wonderful thing that this country of 11,000,000 people had the two largest railway systems in the world.

Undoubtedly his recent success of the Canadian National Railroad had been greatly due to Sir Henry Thornton and yet Conservatives in the House opposed his appointment.

WILL PAY DIVIDEND
"And when Premier King is returned to power at Ottawa, I am certain he will be able to announce within a few years that the C.N.R. is paying a dividend," he said, pointing out that in 1923 Mr. Bennett had opposed any expenditures for the C.N.R., a policy which would have wrecked the future of this great railway system.

Several quotations from Hansard were made by Mr. Henderson, showing Mr. Bennett had opposed the government at every turn, even when a surplus was being shown and the proposals were proper.

"We see from Hansard how Mr. Bennett opposed every expenditure for the good of the country until last year, when his tone calmed down. This year he is willing to spend any amount of money, as he has said in his campaign," he declared.

"I do not wholly blame him for it, however," he concluded whimsically. Mr. Bennett is in a tight fix. He is trying to lead his party out of the wilderness, and he has to do something."

WOMAN SPEAKER
While honoring him by choosing him as their candidate, Liberals of the Nanaimo riding had also honored themselves in selecting Mr. O'Halloran, said Mrs. Paul Smith, at the outset of her remarks.

The knowledge he had gained during his intimate association with the constituency since the last election, would make Mr. O'Halloran a very able representative in the House, she said.

Dealing with campaign matters, Mrs. Smith spoke first of the great interest which women were taking in the present election. This was chiefly because of the vital issues at stake for the housewife, she said.

HOUSEWIVES INTERESTED
Besides an interest in her home, a woman should also turn her attention to a larger unit, the community, then the province and the Dominion. Women of Canada were doing this.

The record of the King administration was plain for anyone to see. It was written on the statute books of the country. In addition to this there was the future policy of the party to be considered.

"Many things in the King Government's record closely touched home life—they affect the mother, the father and the children, she declared. The question of health was one of the chief of these features, Mrs. Smith said, going on to explain action on maternal mortality and infant mortality, taken by the government through the Department of Health. She spoke of the conference of organizations connected with health matters, out of which had arisen a series of publications by Dr. Helen MacKendrick, Ottawa.

Describing methods which would aid to lower the mortality rate in many cases. The outlying parts of the country had received immeasurable benefit from these "blue books," she asserted.

INTEREST IN HEALTH
"I think that speaks well for the interest of the Mackenzie King government in the health of the people of Canada," she said.

Mrs. Smith next took up the question of education. Although this matter was to a large extent confined to the provincial administrations, the Federal government had stepped in to help technical education throughout the Dominion by grants for the construction of schools. Approximately $1,000,000 a year had been divided by the King administration among the provinces during its time in office.

Mrs. Smith detailed the Vancouver Technical School, founded under this system, and referred to its success.

"The policy of the King administration has always been that the cost of living should be kept as low as possible. That affects every home," declared Mrs. Smith, going on to outline his real activities and other means by which this had been effected.

Mr. O'Halloran's whirlwind campaign was referred to by the chairman in glowing terms. The candidate had kept the needs of the constituency in mind during the last four years, and would reap his reward on July 28, he said.

Saskatchewan Premier's Election Course Is Scored

Saskatoon, July 16.—Promises of school grants and even hints of land openings are being made to Manitobans by Premier J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan in order to influence voters in favor of T. R. MacMillan, Federal Conservative candidate in Saskatoon, according to charges made here yesterday by Dr. A. McC. Young, Liberal candidate and member for Saskatoon in the last House of Commons.

Dr. Young read a letter from the Premier to Abe Driedger of Oiler, formerly a member of the Liberal executive, outlining his proposals regarding school grants and lands for the Manitobans. He also read the letter of resignation of Mr. Driedger, leaving the Liberal Association, and ascribing his move to the Premier's promises.

"The action of Premier Anderson," said Dr. Young, "constitutes one of the most serious situations I have ever known since entering public life."

While honoring him by choosing him as their candidate, Liberals of the Nanaimo riding had also honored themselves in selecting Mr. O'Halloran, said Mrs. Paul Smith, at the outset of her remarks.
